

BROKEN RAINBOW

Broken Rainbow is an Academy Award winning documentary on the forced relocation of 14,000 Diné (Navajo) people from their ancestral homeland in Arizona. The genocidal relocation policy was crafted by energy companies and corrupt politicians to make way for coal, oil, gas and uranium exploration. For over 30 years, traditional Diné at Black Mesa, Arizona have lived in resistance, steadfastly refusing to relocate as strip-mines rip apart their sacred lands and generating plants poison the desert air.

There is no Word for Relocation
in the Navajo Language.
To Relocate is to Disappear
and Never be Seen Again.

A caravan of work crews from across the US will be traveling to Black Mesa, Arizona, the sacred ancestral homelands of the Dine' and Hopi peoples, who are resisting massive coal-mining expansion plans and forced relocation laws.

A Santa Cruz contingent will be joining the caravan this year to deliver supplies and assist with on-land projects.

Supplies dropped off at the Santa Cruz benefit event will join us in the journey to Black Mesa.
