From the opening scenes showing a Jewish National Fund (JNF) bulldozer destroying a Bedouin's tent in the Naqab to interviews with the victims of ongoing ethnic cleansing, the 39-minute film Enduring Roots: Over a Century of Resistance to the Jewish National Fund shows the devastating impact that the JNF has on the lives of Palestinians. For over a century, the JNF has been instrumental in expelling Palestinians from their homes and land and creating towns, villages and parks exclusively for Israeli Jews out of the ruins. This film shows the expulsion, how Palestinian civilians are affected and the ways that Palestinians are resisting that expulsion.

Following the film, discussion will be led by a representative of the International Jewish Anti-Zionist Network.

Sacramento Action for Latin America (SALA) joins Sacramento Area Peace Action for its SALA-Goes-to-the-Movies 3rd Wednesday film.
