SUNDAY MORNING AT THE MARXIST LIBRARY

Sun, March 7, 2021: 10:30 am to 12:30 pm Pacific

Capitalism, Ecology, & Socialism

The internal contradictions of capital are extreme. To survive, capitalism requires even more exploitation of the natural resources and human beings of the world. Result of all this is more pollution of air, sea and land on a scale that is undermining the very basis of healthy human existence on earth. Can the alienated individualism and consumerist way of life created by late stage capitalism be ended by a new socialist revolution? Can a new socialism build a healthy materially adequate society for all human beings which lives in balance with Nature? ICSS member Raj Sahai will explore ideas and invite discussion with the participants, in a work in-progress.

About Sunday Morning at the Marxist Library

A weekly discussion series inspired by our respect for the work of Karl Marx and our belief that his work will remain as important for the class struggles of the future as they have been for the past.
